This doesn't stay this case.

No preliminary injunction has been extended to non-debtors.

The fraudulent transactions and conspiracy from this filing will be at issue.

I will appear on Thursday at 3 pm as scheduled.

Respectfully submitted,
Joe Satterley

Subject: [Ext] Re: Update Regarding LTL Bankruptcy

Judge Seabolt,

Today, Judge Kaplan dismissed the LTL bankruptcy. The preliminary injunction was dismissed. The 3rd Circuit refused to extend the stay last week.

We have seen no petition and there is NO ORDER from any court extending the STAY via a Preliminary Injunction to J&J and the distributors. Thus, No Stay is in effect on this case. We will pursue all remedies available for fraudulent actions to prevent a 24 year old dying man from his day in Court.

I will be in Court on Thursday for the Case Management Conference.

Respectfully submitted,
Joe Satterley

Subject: Update Regarding LTL Bankruptcy

Dear Judge Seabolt,

I write to inform the Court that LTL has just refiled for bankruptcy, and as such the automatic stay applies to all cases currently pending against LTL, including the Valadez case. In connection with this filing, LTL is also seeking a Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction that would extend the automatic stay to Johnson & Johnson and all protected parties, including the retailers. I will update the court as soon as I have additional information from the bankruptcy court and can be available to discuss this situation at the Court's convenience.

Respectfully, Alli Brown
